The Brand

Every human being carries an inner fabric.
And in that inner fabric there is a thread.
An almost invisible brilliance.
A golden whisper. A signature glow.
That is your zari.
And our desire is not merely to host you— but to help you find your zari.

- Purpose -

Zari exists
to restore the human spirit,
so the inner gold
within every person
can shine again.

Logo Clearspace

Clear Space

Clear space refers to the minimum area that must surround the logo at all times. This space should remain free of text, images, or any other graphic elements to ensure the logo retains clarity and visual prominence. Maintaining adequate breathing room around the mark helps it remain distinct and recognisable across all brand communications.

Logo Minimum Size

Minimum Size

The logo may be scaled up or down depending on the application. However, it must always be resized proportionally and should never be stretched, compressed, or distorted. At all times, the logo should remain clear and optically legible to ensure strong brand recognition.

While minimum size guidelines are defined, it is always recommended to use the logo larger than the minimum wherever possible to preserve clarity, legibility, and visual presence.

Minimum Size (Digital)

To maintain clarity and legibility across digital platforms, the Zari logo should never appear smaller than the sizes specified here. Additional space is required to ensure the tagline remains readable.

Logo Secondary Submarks

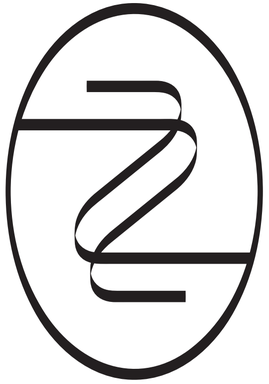

Secondary Mark Usage

Secondary marks are designed to complement the primary ZARI logotype and provide flexibility across applications. They may be used in place of the primary logo where a more subtle expression is appropriate, or the brand name is already clearly presented in text.

Secondary marks must never appear directly alongside the primary logo, as this creates visual redundancy and dilutes brand impact.

Their purpose is to enhance — not compete with — the primary identity. Use them selectively, ensuring clarity, restraint, and consistency across all touchpoints.

Colour

Primary & Secondary Colour

This palette reflects a contemporary and experience-led sense of luxury, where richness comes through clarity, confidence, and emotional depth rather than excess. Dark Green becomes the defining tone of the identity, symbolising renewal, sophistication, and vitality. Its jewel-toned character feels premium while remaining fresh, modern, and connected to nature.

Paired with it, Gold introduces warmth, prestige, and timeless elegance. Together, Dark Green and Gold create a refined contrast often associated with luxury hospitality, heritage spaces, and elevated experiences—balancing exclusivity with warmth.

The supporting neutrals, Cool Grey and White, bring calmness, openness, and architectural clarity to the palette. These tones create breathing space and allow the richer colours to feel balanced and sophisticated.

Black grounds the identity with depth and precision, adding contrast, confidence, and a timeless quality across applications.

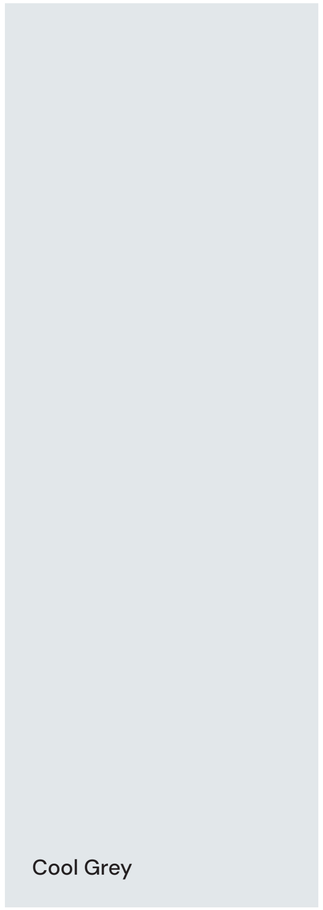

Overall, the palette creates a luxury language that feels elegant, contemporary, and emotionally grounded—where boldness is balanced with restraint and refinement.

Logo Usage On Background Colour

The ZARI logotype must always appear with clarity, balance, and intentional contrast. It should be placed only on approved brand background colours to ensure legibility and maintain the brand's refined visual character.

On darker backgrounds, the logotype should appear in its light version to maintain clear visibility. On lighter backgrounds, the logotype should be used in its dark version to preserve contrast and readability.

Typography

Primary & Secondary Typeface

The brand's typographic system is led by Instrument Serif and Tenor Sans, supported by DM Sans and Commuters Sans to create a clear and structured visual language.

Primary Typefaces

Instrument Serif defines the luxury tone of the brand. Its refined and controlled character brings space, restraint, and architectural elegance to the overall identity.

Tenor Sans, with its balanced thick–thin contrast, reflects the design language of the logo. It works effectively for both headlines and extended copy, maintaining consistency and sophistication.

Secondary Typefaces

DM Sans is used for body copy to ensure clarity and readability in longer text formats, particularly in digital and functional contexts.

Commuters Sans Full Caps is used for indexing, numbers, dates, labels, and other secondary information, adding structure and precision to the system.

Together, these typefaces create a balanced identity that combines luxury, clarity, and order.

Type Hierarchy

The ZARI typographic hierarchy is designed to create clarity through contrast — balancing expressive display with structured readability. Each level has a defined scale, weight, and purpose to ensure consistency across applications.

Visual Order Summary

1. Instrument Serif → Display authority
2. Tenor Sans → Editorial refinement
3. DM Sans → Functional clarity
4. Commuters Sans → Structural precision

Important Note

Avoid mixing more than three hierarchy levels within a single layout.

Imagery

Nature

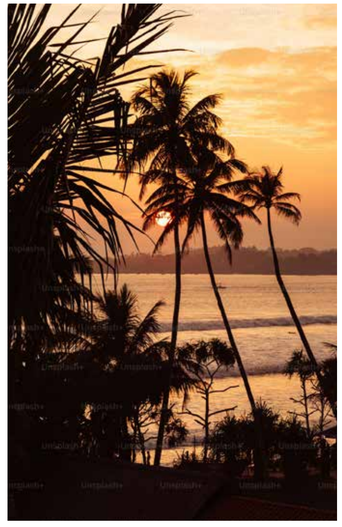

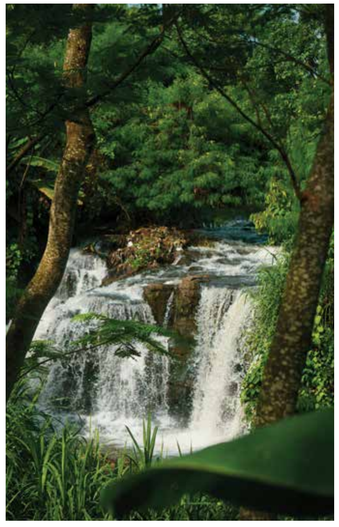

Nature photography should evoke a sense of curiosity, quiet enthusiasm, and emotional connection. Frames should feel immersive and dimensional, using depth through foreground, middle ground, and background rather than appearing flat or overly composed.

Images should be captured as though they are part of life unfolding naturally. Frames should carry a sense of subtle movement or activity, allowing the viewer to feel drawn into the environment rather than simply observing it.

Imagery should reflect the authentic character of the place. Light, texture and atmosphere—should be captured honestly without excessive stylization or over-beautification.

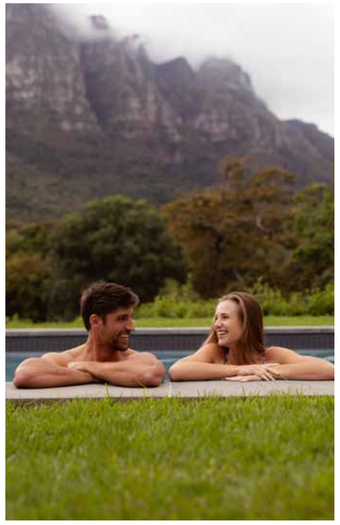

People & Moments

Photography featuring people should feel natural and unscripted, capturing genuine moments rather than staged interactions. The mood should remain authentic, reflecting how the stay experience naturally brings people together.

Images should highlight the subtle relationships that unfold within the space—between people, between people and architecture and between people and nature. These interactions should be captured with sensitivity and honesty, allowing emotions to feel real and understated.

The focus should be on sincere expressions and quiet moments of connection, avoiding exaggerated drama or overly directed scenes. Authenticity and emotional warmth should guide every frame.

Architecture

Architecture photography should emphasise the play of light and shadow, revealing the character and atmosphere of a space. Through thoughtful composition, imagery should clearly communicate the ambience and mood of the environment.

The focus should be on capturing the textures, materials, perspectives, and tonal qualities that define the architecture. Each frame should highlight the relationship between structure, light, and space, allowing the built environment to feel expressive and alive.

Architecture should be treated as a living presence rather than a static subject. The imagery should create a sense of intimacy and invitation—encouraging the viewer to experience the place, rather than simply observe it.
